Book Description

Life's a party, and Roman White is determined to have a good time. As the youngest captain at his airline, he has to endure a little good-natured ribbing, but at least he has the perks of being a pilot: constant travel and four gold bars on his shoulder that help him find men in every town. When he tries commitment, he always overcommits and scares off boyfriends. Why bother settling down? Oscar Brooks is at the top of his game. As a dancer, he's constantly touring with a prestigious company and stretching himself to attract his directors' eye for a leading role. Even his frenemy-with-benefits in the company can't distract him from his goal... until everything goes wrong in a heartbeat and he has to rebuild his life. What is he supposed to do now? Roman has a spare room, and Oscar needs a place to stay. It seems like a match made in heaven. Except the chemistry between them didn't stop after they tried to get it out of their system... and the attraction is only getting worse. Even their friends are trying to keep them apart, afraid of what can happen when two free spirits collide. Will they break each other's heart, or can they break out of their patterns and chase their dreams together? Slick is a standalone gay romance novel with a HEA ending and no cliffhanger.
